SUBJECT: GREAT-WEST LIFE ANNOUNCES CENTENNIAL SYMPOSIUM

An international array of leading thinkers in the fields of education, medicine and economics will participate in a three-day international symposium, to be held in Winnipeg, October 27 - 30.

The symposium to be called The Dilemmas of Modern Man, is the official centennial project of The Great-West Life Assurance Company of Winnipeg. Details of the event were announced at the company's head office March 20th by Great-West Life president, J. W. Burns and Dr. Bob Beamish, chairman of the committee planning the symposium.

The symposium is under the patronage of the Honourable W. John McKeag, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba; Premier Edward Schreyer; Mayor Stephen Juba; Dr. H. E. Duckworth, president of the University of Winnipeg; and Dr. Ernest Sirluck, president of the University of Manitoba.

Speakers already confirmed for the symposium, tentatively scheduled to be held in the Centennial Concert Hall, include: Dr. Aurelio Peccei of the distinguished Club of Rome; the Rt. Hon. Lord Ashby of Brandon, England; Dr. Arthur J. Smith, president of the Conference Board of Canada; Sir Cyril Clarke, president of the Royal College of Physicians in London, England; Maurice Strong, Executive Director of the United Nations Environment Program; Pierre Juneau, Chairman of the CRTC; and Mme. Jeanne Sauve, Minister of State for Federal Government.

In announcing the symposium, Mr. Burns said the company had given consideration to many centennial projects, such as buildings, monuments and so on:

"We decided instead to hold an outstanding intellectual event, since the modern world is confronted with major problems in almost every area. By bringing together outstanding thinkers from many disciplines to discuss the Dilemmas of Modern Man, we hope we will achieve some indication at least of the direction in which some solutions may lie."

"One of the main benefits of the symposium will be the stimulation of the intellectual life of the city through the presence of gifted individuals from various parts of the world. The symposium will also attract international attention to Winnipeg and will confirm our position as one of the intellectual centres of North America."

Dr. Bob Beamish, chairman of the symposium committee, told the news conference that subjects to be discussed at the symposium include global problems, genetics, aging, communication, education and economics.

He said the symposium is expected to attract participants from across Canada and the United States, as well as some from abroad.

Promotional material on the event is being distributed to publications throughout the world and to selected universities and colleges in the Commonwealth and North America.

Dr. Beamish said registration for the event is $100 for out-of-town visitors and $150 if they bring their spouse. For this fee they will gain access not only to the symposium sessions, but also to special receptions and a banquet. In addition, they will receive a bound copy of the proceedings of the symposium.

Residents of the city will be able to attend all sessions for $50, or $75 if they bring their spouses.

The company has agreed to heavily subsidize the symposium and any Winnipegger will be able to attend any session for only $1:

"Above all, we want Winnipeggers to participate on the occasion of their city's birthday," said Dr. Beamish. "This will be an opportunity for challenging intellectual stimulation, which the city has rarely seen before."

SUBJECT: PURPOSE OF CENTENNIAL SYMPOSIUM EXPLAINED

When the centennial committee of The Great-West Life Assurance Company began to look at possible centennial projects for the company many months ago, they went through dozens of ideas, many of them concerned with physical projects. According to Dr. Bob Beamish, chairman of the company's symposium committee, all these projects were finally rejected in favour of something "in the realm of the mind".

The Dilemmas of Modern Man was born. In an interview, Dr. Beamish said the Dilemmas of Modern Man symposium was chosen for three reasons other than the simple desire to honor the City of Winnipeg's Centennial:

"We thought an international symposium of leading thinkers would stimulate the intellectual life of the community. On top of that it will, we hope, lead to increased inter-communication between the business and academic communities. And, finally, it demonstrates the company's concern for the welfare and aspirations of people without concern for company self-interest."

Dr. Beamish said the stature of all those invited to speak is impeccable and their fame is, in most cases, global. He said increased inter-communication between the business and academic communities is of vital concern to everyone today and the symposium will afford an opportunity for great minds in both these fields to get together.

"The modern world is confronted with major problems in every aspect of existence," he said. "We know the problems but we don't have too many solutions and these must be found more rapidly than in the past if Man is to enjoy the benefits of his ingenuity and productivity."

"There is a real need to bring together leading thinkers from many disciplines in order to find out where the solutions to world problems might lie. We are optimistic that our symposium will help in some measure to do this."

SUBJECT: GREAT MINDS TO GATHER AT CENTENNIAL SYMPOSIUM

Dr. Bob Beamish, chairman of the committee which engineered the centennial symposium, Dilemmas of Modern Man, says 17 distinguished speakers have so far been confirmed for the gathering, to be held in Winnipeg October 27-30. The symposium, a centennial project of The Great-West Life Assurance Company of Winnipeg, will be split into six segments, each on a different problem of the modern world.

The morning session of October 28 will open with a discussion of Genetics. The moderator has been confirmed as Dr. John L. Hamerton of Winnipeg and confirmed speakers include Sir Cyril Clarke of Liverpool and London, England, and Dr. Charles R. Scriver of Montreal.

The afternoon session of the 28th, on Global problems, will be moderated by Dr. F. Kenneth Hare of the Department of the Environment. Confirmed speakers for this session are Dr. Aurelio Peccei of the Club of Rome and Maurice Strong, Executive Director of the U.N. Environment Program.

On Tuesday, October 29, the morning session will be on Aging and the moderator will be Dr. J. A. MacDonell of the University of Manitoba. Confirmed speakers include Dr. Nathan Shock of Baltimore and Dr. Ferguson Anderson of Glasgow.

The afternoon session, on Communication, will be moderated by Mme. Jeanne Sauve, Minister of State for Federal Government. Confirmed speakers include Dr. A. Davidson Dunton, Director of the Institute of Canadian Affairs at Carleton University in Ottawa; and Pierre Juneau, Chairman of the Canadian Radio and Television Commission (CRTC).

Confirmed speakers for the panel on Education on the morning of October 30 are the Rt. Hon. Lord Ashby of Brandon, England; and Dr. Michael Oliver, president of Carleton University, Ottawa.

The final session, on the afternoon of the 30th, will deal with Economics. The moderator will be Dr. Arthur J. R. Smith, president of the Conference Board in Canada. Confirmed speakers include Dr. Herbert Stein, Chief Economic Adviser to the U.S. government, Washington, D.C.; and Dr. John J. Deutsch, principal of Queen's University.

Dr. Beamish said invitations have gone out to other distinguished thinkers and their participation will be announced as acceptances come back to the company.

He said registration for the event is $100 for out-of-town visitors and $150 if they bring their spouse. For this fee they will gain access not only to the symposium sessions, but also to special receptions and a banquet. In addition, they will receive a bound copy of the proceedings of the symposium.

Residents of the city will be able to attend all sessions for $50, or $75 if they bring their spouses.

The company has agreed to heavily subsidize the symposium and any Winnipegger will be able to attend any session for only $1.
